WARNING

Dear Reader,

On 28/02/2010 an advert was placed on the second page of the Rapport newspaper, advertising SMART Technologies agencies for sale. Please see page two of this article for a copy of the advert.

The product advertised in the newspaper (page 2 Rapport) and on the advertised website (www.hhah.biz), is in fact the Geysewise, a product which is patented by Meinhard Fourie and only World Focus 559 CC and Greentap have licences to produce the Geysewise.

Labels on the product pictured in the newspaper and on the website have been changed by SMART Technologies in an attempt to pass it off as their own. This clearly infringes on Meinhard Fourie's patent rights. All information on the advertised website has also been copied directly from www.geyserwise.co.za, which is also infringes on the copyright of the Geysewise website.

SMART Technologies has no agreement to sell any Geysewise or World Focus 559 CC products. Mr David Louw (a representative of SMART Technologies) has visited our offices to meet the members and he 'bought' 10 units and paid by cheque. Unfortunately the cheque was returned by the bank as unpaid and two months later World Focus 559 CC is still waiting for payment. As a result it is not possible for World Focus 559 CC to supply SMART Technologies with any stock of Geysewise.

This is a warning to all persons interested in SMART Technologies agencies:

- SMART Technologies is infringing on Meinhard Fourie's patent rights by changing the labelling on the product and claiming the product as their own. The original product is the Geysewise and the phone number on the product is that of our technical call centre.
- SMART Technologies will not be able to obtain the product from the official suppliers due to non-payment and therefore franchisees will probably not be able to obtain any stock through SMART Technologies.

Please do not hesitate to contact Meinhard Fourie at Geysewise for any further questions. All contact details are on the header of this page.
